

Around that time

my friends dragged me to their favorite bar.

Zeitgeist.

Where Robin happened to help out sometimes.

It quickly became my favorite as well.

Because
it was fun with them.

And
because he was there.

We'd meet
there almost every day.

Even when he wasn't working.

He spent most of his breaks with me,

and sometimes after his shifts

we'd wander around town without a real destination.

We'd forget time, and just talk,

and talk,

and talk.